A SPECIAL WELCOME TO THE FAMILIES OF THE CLASS OF 2023

Welcome to the University of Rochester! We are excited that you and your students have joined our community. We hope that you find both the following Information for Parents and the UR Here student handbook itself helpful and informative. Your students are beginning an amazing journey and you are, too. This information will help guide you either to the answers you seek or to someone in The College who can help provide those answers. We look forward to being there for our students as well as their families over the next four years and beyond.

The College is a vibrant and central part of the University of Rochester, and we are so pleased to welcome you. Our best wishes to you and your students.

Marcy Kraus, Dean of First-Year Students

Matthew Burns, Dean of Students

INFORMATION FOR PARENTS

ACADEMIC QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What academic units comprise the University of Rochester?

One college and a number of schools on three campuses:

River Campus

The College of Arts, Sciences and Engineering

William E. Simon Graduate School of Business Administration

Margaret Warner Graduate School of Education and Human Development

Medical Center

School of Medicine and Dentistry

School of Nursing

Eastman School of Music

Where do the undergraduate students matriculate?

All undergraduates are enrolled in The College, with the exception of students at the Eastman School of Music. As noted above, The College comprises departments and programs in Arts and Sciences as well as in Engineering and Applied Sciences.

Where do undergraduates take their courses?

Most courses taken by undergraduates are in The College, but students may take courses in any one of the schools of the University as long as they have the interest and have satisfied the prerequisites.

How many students are enrolled at the University?

There are about 5,800 full-time undergraduates and 4,300 graduate students, including those at the Eastman School of Music and the School of Medicine and Dentistry.

What is the normal course load per semester?

Four courses at four credits per course (16 credit hours) are typical. Students may carry between 14 and 19 credits without special approval.

How many credits constitute an overload? Is there an extra charge for extra credits?

A schedule with 20 or more credits is an overload. Special permission is required, and first-semester freshmen are not eligible to carry an overload, although they may take as many as three credits above their standard four courses. There is no extra charge for credits earned over and above the standard 16 per semester.

What about an underload? Is there a refund?

A schedule with 12 or 13 credits is an underload. Special permission is required. There is no refund. (Full-time students must carry at least 12 credits each semester.)

How big are the classes?

Classes in The College vary greatly in size. Some introductory and particularly popular courses are held in lecture halls seating over 200 students. These courses also have recitation sections -- small classes of 10 to 20 students -- where discussions and explanations of lectures and problems are handled by teaching assistants. Recitations usually meet once a week for 50 minutes. Many large or introductory courses also offer study workshops that are led by specially trained peer leaders. WRT 105, the course used to meet the primary writing requirement, has 15 or fewer students.

When do students take classes?

Classes are held Monday through Friday. Some are scheduled for 50-minute periods; other classes meet for 1 hour and 15 minutes twice a week. Additional classes and labs are scheduled in the afternoon. Evening classes are rare.

How many hours a week do students study for their courses?

It is hard to generalize, but each 4-credit course will require students to work approximately 10 hours a week in addition to classroom attendance. Most students find that they need to study 4-6 hours a day.

How does a student get Advanced Placement credit? International Baccalaureate?

Departmental criteria, published in the First-Year Academic Handbook, determine how credit may be awarded to students who take the College Board Advanced Placement tests and I.B. higher-level courses. The College Center for Advising Services notifies students of AP credit decisions in the summer and during Orientation, and of I.B. decisions as it receives transcripts.

Does the College have an Enrollment Policy?

Students admitted in the fall of 2013 and beyond are expected to carry the normal academic load of 16 credits per semester allowing them to complete 128 credits in eight semesters. To ensure that students get the full benefit of the residential college experience, students are expected to maintain full-time enrollment during the fall or spring semester for no less than seven semesters.

Summer and transfer credit, credit for Advanced Placement and International Baccalaureate exams, credit earned on UR study abroad programs that permit continuation of UR financial aid, as well as overload credits earned over the standard 16 per semester, may be applied to meet College requirements. However, the total credit from these sources cannot be used to accelerate graduation by more than one semester.

What is the Rochester Curriculum?

The Rochester Curriculum is our interest-driven course of study in which students complete, in addition to a major, a distributional cluster in each of the two divisions outside the division of the major. The three divisions are traditional: humanities; social sciences; and natural sciences, mathematics, and engineering. Clusters -- sets of three linked courses -- are offered by virtually every department and program.

Is a student required to take a foreign language?

While there is no foreign language requirement, students may learn a new language -- more than ten are offered -- or improve existing skills. Both the Department of Modern Languages and Cultures and the Department of Religion and Classics offer language courses. Divisional clusters in the humanities may be completed in most languages.

Is there a physical education requirement?

No. Students are encouraged to participate in a variety of sports programs, including intramurals, intercollegiate sports, and special clinics sponsored by the Department of Athletics and Recreation.

What grade point average (GPA) must a student have in order to graduate?

A student must have an overall GPA of at least 2.0 (C), and also at least a 2.0 average in the courses submitted for the major and in the divisional clusters students complete in each area outside the area of the major.

Can a student take lessons at the Eastman School of Music? Are music lessons graded?

Students wishing to audition for 2-credit lessons at the Eastman School should visit the Music Department website to complete the audition request form. Auditions are held at the beginning of classes each semester. Eligibility for 2-credit lessons requires that one read music fluently and demonstrate at least an intermediate level of advancement on the instrument or voice. The music lesson grade is calculated as part of the student's GPA. Students not majoring in music may take these lessons (2 credits) for eight semesters for a total of 16 credits. Full-time students are not charged additional tuition for applied music lessons unless the credits earned over and above the standard 16 per semester are used to accelerate the completion of the degree.

Suppose students do not pass the audition; can they still take music lessons?

Yes, students may take lessons through the Eastman Community Education School. A special fee is required and no collegiate credit is given. See <http://www.esm.rochester.edu/community/> for further information.

Will advisors be assigned to each first-year student?

First-year students in the College work with their Undergraduate Advisors beginning at Orientation and until the end of the sophomore year, unless students are accepted into a major earlier. Once in a major, faculty advisors from the students' major departments take on the responsibility. It is not unusual for students interested in engineering to work with the same advisor throughout their undergraduate years. All students are also welcome to see a professional staff advisor in the College Center for Advising Services, Lattimore 312.

Where does a student go for help in choosing courses and selecting a major?

To his or her Undergraduate Advisor, peer advisor, the academic department of interest, or to the College Center for Advising Services, where full-time professional advisors are readily available.

What are the criteria for Dean's List?

Students need to earn an overall semester GPA of 3.4 and complete 16 or more credit hours, at least 12 of which have normal letter grades (A through E), with no "I" or "N" grades.

How many first-year students get into academic trouble?

Between 5 and 7% of the first-year class is on academic probation by the end of the first year, and 8-10 first-year students typically are separated from the University, none after their first semester.

Can a student who has been separated for academic reasons return to the University?

Yes, a student may apply for readmission after one year away. It is rare for a student not to be readmitted.

Are there any important points to remember about the grading system?

Yes. The Basic Science Sequence regulations state that students receiving less than C- in an introductory math, chemistry, computer science, or physics course will not be allowed to continue in that sequence without special permission (granted by the appropriate department). In addition, the College requires students to earn a grade of C or higher in WRT 105, the course fulfilling the Primary Writing Requirement.

Do all courses affect the student's grade point average?

All regular letter grades (A through E) affect the average, unless the student has declared the S/F (satisfactory/fail) option.

Are grade reports sent home?

No. Students access their grades on-line through UR ACCESSplus.

May I request a copy of my student's grades?

Yes, parents may request grades for students under the age of twenty-one by sending a signed request to the Office of the Registrar. See the complete policy at <http://www.rochester.edu/registrar/faq/parents.html>.

Is it unusual for students to change majors?

No. More than half of our students change their primary area of interest at least once over their four years.

How many students go on to graduate or professional school?

Usually about a third of the senior class goes on, immediately after graduation, to graduate or professional schools. Many more earn advanced degrees at a later time.

What procedure should be followed if my student is hospitalized or needs to leave school for a period of time?

Whenever possible, students are encouraged to communicate directly with their professors. Additionally, students are encouraged to inform the Center for Advising Services when an illness, death or family emergency causes them to return home. Students are also encouraged to meet with an advisor in Advising Services upon their return. See <http://www.rochester.edu/college/ccas/AdviserHandbook/Attendance.html> for additional information.

ACADEMIC PROGRAMS AND SERVICES

AUDITED COURSES

Students wanting to participate in class sessions during the academic year and work without earning a grade for the course or credit towards a degree may register to audit. There is no extra cost for full-time students, but permission of the instructor is required. The course will not appear on the transcript.

GRADUATE COURSES

Undergraduates may take graduate level courses. To qualify for such a course, the student must have the academic prerequisites and must show that he/she is capable of handling graduate level courses. Written approval of the instructor in the course and the student's dean are required.

GRADUATING WITH HONORS

Students graduating from the College are awarded degrees cum laude, magna cum laude, and summa cum laude if they have earned at least 88 credit hours that are counted in the GPA, have completed all degree requirements, have no missing grades, and have a final cumulative average that meets the criteria announced in the spring of their senior year. Summa cum laude graduates comprise the top 2% of the class, magna cum laude the next 10%, and cum laude the next 20%.

LEAVING THE UNIVERSITY

Some students decide to take a temporary leave from the University, and others withdraw altogether. The student accomplishes this objective by going to the College Center for Advising Services to request a Leave of Absence or to withdraw from the University. Students who leave after the beginning of the semester may be eligible for a partial refund of tuition according to the predetermined schedule published on the Bursar's web site.

Leave of Absence is designed for students who want to leave campus for a certain length of time but intend to return within the next few semesters. Students are charged a $60 fee for each semester they request this standing. Students do not have to apply for readmission to the University when they decide to return. Returning to Rochester after withdrawal, however, requires formal readmission, which is handled by the College Center for Advising Services.

NAVAL SCIENCE PROGRAMS

Students interested in becoming an officer in the United States Navy or Marine Corps are encouraged to explore opportunities available through the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps (NROTC). Prospective Midshipmen may apply in high school for an NROTC scholarship, or affiliate with the unit on a non-scholarship (College Program) basis up to the start of their sophomore year. Once in the College Program, Midshipmen may then apply for a three-year or two-year NROTC scholarship to complete their degree.

NROTC Rochester consists of approximately 75 men and women. The unit places a strong emphasis on moral, academic, and physical excellence. The support and encouragement of the unit staff coupled with the camaraderie of the Midshipmen Battalion provides a framework for success through one's college career.

Midshipmen normally take one Naval Science course per semester. Time in class is complemented by a weekly lab period in which students participate in activities such as leadership training, guest presenters and public speaking. Outside the classroom, unit-sponsored activities include military drill competitions, intramural sports and community service activities. An integral part of the University community, NROTC Midshipmen participate in the full range of UR activities.

SENIOR SCHOLARS

Students accepted to this program are able to devote their entire final year of college to work on a single intellectual project. The project may include coursework in addition to independent study. The nature of the project can range from scholarly research to artistic creativity, and should draw and build upon a student's career through the junior year. The principal characteristics of the project should be intellectual engagement and coherence and educational soundness and continuity. The project is composed and carried out under the supervision of a faculty advisor or advisors, and reviewed by the Committee on Individualized Interdepartmental Programs. For further information students should contact the Multidisciplinary Studies Center.

SUMMER SCHOOL

The College typically offers almost 100 traditional and nontraditional courses in 4- and 6-week sessions from May into early August, including online courses. Summer is a great time for students to get ahead, catch up, repeat a course, complete a cluster, or just try something different. Undergraduates successfully completing such courses receive full credit toward the degree, and grades are calculated into the grade point average. On-campus housing is available. Visit <http://www.rochester.edu/college/osp/> for more information.

UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH

As a major research institution, the College actively encourages primary research by undergraduates, not only in the natural sciences and engineering, but in the social sciences and humanities as well. Opportunities for doing hands-on, professionally supervised research in fields as diverse as organic chemistry and medieval history are open to qualified students, both within regular courses and in special independent projects during the regular school year and in the summer. For information on such opportunities, contact the Director of Undergraduate Research or go to the web site at www.rochester.edu/College/ugresearch/.

Additionally, there are opportunities to participate in courses supervised by University faculty members, which usually combine field experience with lectures, seminars, and oral and written reports, as well as credit-bearing internships, which enable students to work in a variety of off-campus settings. Information may be obtained from the College Center for Advising Services. Finally, the Gwen M. Greene Career and Internship Center and the Rochester Center for Community Leadership are major sources of information on all matters of experiential opportunities for students.

INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Internships are a form of experiential learning that integrate knowledge and theory learned in the classroom with practical applications in a professional setting. Internships can be completed locally, internationally, and in locations throughout the U.S. The University also participates in the The Washington Center's semester-long internship program in Washington, D.C. For further information, students may consult with the Gwen M. Greene Center, the College Center for Advising Services, the Center for Education Abroad, and the Rochester Center for Community Leadership.

STUDENT RIGHTS

FAMILY EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS AND PRIVACY ACT

The University of Rochester complies fully with the provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), 20 U.S.C. 1232g. Under FERPA, students have, with certain limited exceptions, the right to inspect and review their educational records and to request the amendment of their records to ensure that they are not inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the student's privacy or other rights. FERPA further requires, again with certain limited exceptions, that the student's consent must be obtained before disclosing any personally identifiable information in the student's education records. One such exception is disclosure to parents of dependent students. Another exception is disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interest, on a "need-to-know" basis, as determined by the administrator responsible for the file. Students who want further information about the University's student records policy may obtain copies of it from the Registrar. Students alleging failure to comply with FERPA have the right to file complaints with the U.S. Department of Education under its regulations (see 34 C.F.R. Part 99).

Currently enrolled students may request that directory information (name, campus address, home address, telephone number, date and place of birth, academic fields of study, current enrollment (full or part time), email address, dates of attendance, participation in recognized activities and sports, degrees and awards, weight and height of athletic team members, previous educational agencies or institutions attended, and other similar information) be withheld from disclosure by making a request, in writing, to the Office of the University Registrar, 127 Lattimore Hall or to PO Box 270038. The University assumes that failure on the part of the student to specifically request the withholding of any directory information indicates approval of disclosure.

STANDARDS OF CONDUCT

Students are expected to abide by the policies of the University and to conduct themselves in accordance with accepted standards of good citizenship, honesty, and propriety, and with proper regard for the rights of others. Students must, of course, also obey federal, state, and local laws. Furthermore, their responsibilities as students, scholars, researchers, and in many cases teachers and emerging professionals, often make special demands for the highest ethical standards.

Students who may have acted in a manner that is inconsistent with the standards of our community will be given notice of their alleged infraction, an opportunity to explain what happened and the chance to appeal the initial outcome. Appropriate cases may be referred to an alternative dispute resolution process, such as mediation or a restorative circle, in lieu of our traditional hearing based conduct system. A full description of the University conduct process is provided in Standards of Student Conduct: A Guide to the University of Rochester Conduct Process and Policies which is published by the Center for Student Conflict Management, an area within the Office of the Dean of Students. For further information visit the CSCM website at <http://www.rochester.edu/college/dos/conduct/> or contact Kyle Orton, Assistant Dean of Students and Director of the Center for Student Conflict Management at 275-4085.

COMMUNICATION AND CONFIDENTIALITY

The College welcomes communication from the parents and guardians of our students. Our aim is to be as responsive as possible within legal guidelines. Our policies of communication about students are both informed and constrained by federal legislation.

ACADEMIC MATTERS

- Students have access to their grades online; paper copies of grade reports are not sent either to students or parents. The policy of the College is to release grade information to parents when permitted by law, unless the student objects and/or disclosure would not be in the student's best interest in the judgment of the College. Federal law (FERPA) generally prohibits a school's disclosure of grades without the student's consent. However schools may, but are not required to, disclose academic information to parents of students who can be claimed as dependents under federal tax laws. The College will generally honor written (not e-mail), signed requests by students to release their grades to parents or other persons specified. Signed, written (not e-mail) grade requests by parents of undergraduates will also generally be honored; however, the College may deny a request if the student objects or if the Dean decides that disclosure is not in the student's best interest, or if the student cannot be claimed as a dependent.

SHARING INFORMATION ABOUT STUDENT CONDUCT

- The College does not routinely inform parents or guardians about action resulting from a student engaging in inappropriate behavior. In accordance with FERPA, the College will contact parents if their student has engaged in behavior that causes a perceived significant risk to themselves or others.
- Students may choose to allow the College to share information contained in their conduct files by signing a FERPA release in the Center for Student Conflict Management.

The University of Rochester complies fully with the provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), 20 U.S.C. 1232g. FERPA requires, with certain limited exceptions, that the student's consent must be obtained before disclosing any personally identifiable information in the student's education records. One such exception is disclosure [of grades] to parents of dependent students.

HEALTH AND COUNSELING

- The relationship between the University Health Service providers and their patients is confidential. Notification of others, including parents, friends, and University faculty and administrators is considered the student's responsibility, unless the situation is life threatening and the student is unable to assume responsibility for informing others. Parental notification and consent will be obtained for students under age 18, as required by law. For more information about UHS, check www.rochester.edu/uhs.
- All client contact with the University Counseling Center therapists is confidential. The fact that a student is using UCC will not be disclosed to any University official or faculty member, or to family, friends, or roommates, without permission of the student, except in very specific circumstances. These circumstances are limited to instances when a student's life or that of another person is in danger. For more information about UCC, see www.rochester.edu/ucc.
- These policies are in accordance with New York State law and the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act Regulations (HIPAA), which regulate how hospitals and physicians can report information about their patients. They have significant impact on our ability to communicate information about students receiving health care while in college. The College's aim is to be as helpful and responsive to students and their families as the law will allow. We have therefore encouraged College personnel (coaches, area directors, deans, etc.) to make every effort to communicate with or to accompany students in the Emergency Department to provide the extra support and care often needed when students are away from home. Because we cannot guarantee being able to inform families when a student's health and safety is affected, it is our policy to actively encourage the student to contact his or her family and friends directly and immediately.
