Course Syllabus

The focus of the course will be a close scrutiny of free and enslaved African Americans as they expressed themselves socially and culturally. Course readings will be selected from autobiographies by Africans and African Americans, supplemented with brief selections from secondary texts. Using the autobiographies as historical source material, we will critique the historical representations of African Americans and evaluate the ways in which they built the foundations of black American communities and a dynamic black culture.

Course Requirements: Three Class Papers (30%) [first class paper 2-3 sides; 2nd and 3rd papers 3-5 sides]; 2
Take Home. Tests (10%); Participation & Presentations (10%); Research paper Proposal (10%); Paper 10-12 sides (40%). Due Dates: Paper one (2/23); Paper Two (3/23); Paper Three (4/6) March) Take Home Test (3/9 & 4/13); Research Paper Proposal (4/27); Research Paper (5/6) (Electronic copies required for all written assignments).

For your Information:

University of Rochester COVID-19 regulations: The University is committed to protecting the health and safety of the entire community - students, faculty and staff. For this reason, it is mandatory that everyone wear a mask in University buildings and observe appropriate social distancing, including classrooms. Masks have been provided to students, faculty and staff and classrooms have been specifically assigned to allow for social distancing to support these requirements. You must wear a mask appropriately (e.g. over nose and mouth) if you are attending class in person, and you must do this for every class session and for the entire duration of each class session. If you fail to do this, you will be politely reminded of the requirement and then asked to leave if you do not comply. If you do not want to wear a mask, you may consider taking the course remotely (online). This may require you to complete a set of online requirements different from the in-person requirements, although these will be equivalent in their learning objectives.

The College's credit hour policy on undergraduate courses is to award 4 credit hours for courses that meet for the equivalent of 3 periods of 50 minutes each week. Students enrolled in Hist 170 will be expected to spend at least one hour each week engaged in close reading of assigned and relevant course texts; compiling details notes that will be discussed in class, and provide source material for course written assignments.

Note-Taking and Research:

As the material from the Assigned Readings will inform our discussions throughout the course, as well as constitute the major sources on which you will draw for your written assignments, you are strongly encouraged to maintain clear and detailed notes on all class readings.

The faculty of the Department of History considers class attendance essential to the mastering of the content of its courses and the production of quality history papers. Students who have to miss class should inform the instructor of the reason for their absence, in advance whenever possible. In addition, students should come to class prepared to comment on and discuss the assigned readings.

Academic honesty: All assignments and activities associated with this course must be performed in accordance with the University of Rochester's Academic Honesty Policy. Cheating and plagiarism are serious offenses and will be treated as such. Anyone who engages in such activities will be turned over to the College Board on Academic Honesty for disciplinary action, as outlined at http://www.rochester.edu/College/honesty/.

Students with disabilities: The University of Rochester respects and welcomes students of all backgrounds and abilities. In the event you encounter any barrier(s) to full participation in this course due to the impact of disability, please contact the Office of Disability Resources. The access coordinators in the Office of Disability Resources can meet with you to discuss the barriers you are experiencing and explain the eligibility process for establishing academic accommodations. You can reach the Office of Disability Resources at: disability@rochester.edu; (585) 276-5075; Taylor Hall.
