Office Hours: Tuesday 11:30-2

Course Goals:

Over the past century, terrorism has become a common feature of world politics, enabling small groups of individuals to have a disproportionate influence on the politics of both developed and underdeveloped countries. This course explores some of the fundamental questions of terrorism: Why individuals join terrorist groups, why terrorist groups adopt certain tactics such as suicide bombing, how terrorist groups organize themselves, and what counterterrorism strategies are effective? It aims to develop critical thinking about these basic questions, knowledge of the details of a few selected cases, and give students experience constructing social-scientific arguments.

Textbooks:

Burleigh, Michael. Blood and Rage: A Cultural History of Terrorism. New York: HarperCollins, 2009.

Hoffman, Bruce (2006) Inside Terrorism (2nd ed). New York: Columbia University Press.

Grading:

Class Participation — 20%
Midterm — 20%
Data Exercise — 30%
Final — 30%

Course Policies:

Unexcused late work will be penalized a whole letter grade, and an additional letter grade for every additional 24 hours of lateness. Plagiarism or cheating will be treated seriously and reported to the Board of Academic Honesty.

Course Requirements:

Attendance and Reading: Students will be required attend discussion sections on six specific regularly scheduled class dates, generally Thursdays. On these Thursdays (indicated in the syllabus) students should come prepared to discuss the readings for that week and the previous week. Students will be asked to sign up for specific section locations on the first day of class

Midterm: A midterm exam on October 17th will ask students to identify and explain key concepts from the first six (6) weeks of the course.

Final: A final exam will ask students to identify and explain key concepts from the last eight (8) weeks of the course, and write essays on themes covering the whole of the course material.

Data Exercise: Students will be expected to produce an essay of between 1500 and 2000 words that identifies a questions or puzzle concerning terrorism, develops a hypothesis about its solution, relates the questions and answer to the course readings, and provides statistical evidence to support the hypothesis. The statistical evidence should be drawn from one of three data sources:

The Global Terrorism Database: <http://www.start.umd.edu/gtd/>

The Lee Dataset of Bengali Nationalists: Blackboard Server

Gallup Survey of International Reactions to the Death of Osama Bin Laden:
