Restrictions on foreign nationals on research projects

Agreeing to restrict participation on a research project is against University policy and if accepted would create a significant burden on the institution to comply with this requirement. In addition, such a restriction can jeopardize the fundamental research exclusion. If there is any indication that the participants on a research project are to be limited in some manner, it is necessary to evaluate with ORPA whether the project can go forward.

EXAMPLES OF PROBLEMATIC LANGUAGE

Foreign National Restriction

- Contractor must submit employee's eligibility documentation for review and approval.
- All foreign nationals who work on the contract or task order shall be approved by the Contracting Officer before beginning work on a contract/task order.
- By signing the contract, the Contractor certifies that no foreign nationals are working under the contract.
