Computer Science Placement Test Now Available
Sent August 3, 2020 through Blackboard

The Computer Science placement test is now available in Blackboard in the Online Orientation 2020 organization. If you do not plan on studying computer science or a field that requires CSC courses you do not need to take the placement test.

Students who have not previously studied computer science should review the course descriptions for CSC 161 and CSC 171. Both courses offer an introduction to programming.

Students who scored a 4 or 5 on the computer science AP “A” exam should not take the placement exam and instead, should register for CSC 172. Students who are “self-taught” and wish to register for CSC 172, must first pass the Computer Science Placement exam with an 80 percent or higher score.
