The following tables show the demographic trends of the entire University, individual schools, staff, and students. These data are compiled from different sources. Different reporting agencies require different standard terminology, and definitions of what constitutes an underrepresented minority group, along with terminology, have changed over time. Please read the footnotes carefully.

Note: Faculty as defined by the Faculty Senate. The categories included changed from 2008 to 2009. Underrepresented Minorities (URM) is defined as Black, Native American, Hispanic, and Pacific Islanders. URM does not include people who chose more than one race, or "multiple".

* Errors in the 2009 data were present in previous reports. The table above reflects corrected numbers.

Source: HRMS data. In 2009, To comply with new ethnicity/race categories for the Department of Education, new VETS100 categories, and to answer the audit from the Department of Labor, our resurvey of all faculty and staff decreased the non-specified category. HRMS carried over whatever was in the system, and those who were unresponsive could have been self-ID or visual observation as permitted by law to assign a category.

* URM- Underrepresented Minorities (American Indian, Black/African-American, Hispanic, Pacific Islander.) Effective March 2010, data reflects an additional selection labeled, "multiple", consistent with recent regulation changes; employees may now self-identify as multiple races. Underrepresented Minority does not include "multiple."

* URM- Underrepresented Minorities (American Indian, Black/African-American, Hispanic, Pacific Islander) In 2010, according to Federal changes, there are new categories separating Asian and Pacific Islanders and allowing for 2+ races. Pacific Islanders are now part of the URM category, but 2+ races are not considered URM in student data. These data exclude the Eastman Institute of Oral Health

^ In previous reports, 2010-2012 data did not include Pacific Islanders in the total URM category. The table above reflects corrected numbers.
